How you can use your credit card

Purchases	Paying for goods and services in store or online, or making recurring transactions, for example to pay for subscription services.
Balance transfers	Moving what you owe from one UK credit card to another.
Money transfers	Transferring money from your credit card to your UK current account.
Cash transactions	Using your credit card to withdraw cash, buy foreign currency and other cash-related transactions, for example sending money orders or wire transfers, or online trading such as share dealing or investments. Check the terms and conditions of your credit card for a comprehensive list of cash transactions.

How interest is charged

We work out interest on your total overall balance each day. We add up the daily interest amounts in each statement period and add the total to your balance on your statement date each month. The sooner you make your payments, even before the payment due date, the less interest you will pay. There are some exceptions to these interest rules. Details are available within your terms and conditions.

Estimated interest

This is an estimate of the interest you'll have to pay next month. It assumes:

- you pay only the minimum due
- you pay by the due date
- you have no more transactions before your next statement
- you don't change your statement date
- your standard interest rates and the way we work out interest don't change

The estimate does not include reduced interest if a promotional rate starts before your next statement is produced.

Important Information about Promotional Offers

You will lose any promotional offers if we do not receive your minimum payment on time. The standard rate will apply on the remaining balance

Recommended Payment Amount and Suggested Payment Amount

If we show a Recommended Payment Amount or a Suggested Payment Amount in the summary of your account section in this statement, this means that you are in persistent debt. This is where you have paid more in interest, fees and charges than from your outstanding balance for a long time. These are amounts you can choose to pay to get you out of persistent debt. We will write to you separately with further information at the time. If you have a Recommended Payment Amount we have included more information about your persistent debt balance later in this statement.
For more details about persistent debt please see your terms and conditions.

SUMMARY BOX

The information contained in this table summarises the key product features not displayed elsewhere on the statement and is not intended to replace any terms and conditions.

Interest-free period	Maximum 56 days on purchases added to your main balance during your latest statement period if, by the payment due date: · you pay off your main balance in full (excluding any balance or money transfers on introductory or promotional rates), plus any instalment plan payments, or · if your minimum payment is higher, you pay at least the minimum payment required, and you met the same payment requirement for the previous statement period. There is no interest-free period on cash transactions, balance transfers or money transfers (subject to any 0% interest free promotional offers).
Interest charging information	We work out interest on your total overall balance each day. We add up the daily interest amounts in each statement period and add the total to your balance on your statement date each month. If interest is payable, it will be charged from the date the transaction is added to your account until the balance is paid in full.
Allocation of payments	When we get a payment from you that doesn't pay off the overall balance on your account, we allocate it in this order: 1. Any overdue amounts from previous statements. 2. The minimum payment for that month. 3. Any instalment plan payments for that month. If your payment isn't enough to cover all the instalment plan payments due, we'll apply it to your plans, starting with the highest interest rate plan and ending with the lowest interest rate plan. For instalment plans with the same interest rate or 0% interest, we'll apply your payment to the oldest plan first. 4. The rest of the main balance from your latest statement. 5. The rest of the instalment plan balance. If you have more than one instalment plan we'll allocate your payment in the same order as set out in point 3 above. 6. Any amounts that haven't been included in your statement yet. We apply payments to the part of your main balance with the highest interest rate first. If you have balances in your main balance that are charged at the same interest rate and are not on introductory or promotional offers, we'll usually apply payments in this order: 1. Cash transactions, plus interest, fees, and charges. 2. Purchases, plus interest, fees, and charges. 3. Balance transfers and money transfers, plus interest, fees, and charges. 4. Default fees. Your payments will usually pay off the oldest balance first. However, if you have balances with the same interest rate on introductory or promotional offers, your payments will pay off the offer that ends soonest first. Next, they'll pay off any related fees, charges or payment protection insurance. If you're in persistent debt, we may apply your payments differently.
Minimum repayment	The minimum payment will be the higher of £5.00, or the total of the following amounts as shown on your statement - interest charged, any default fees you owe, any account fee, any payment protection insurance, and 1.00% of the total balance you owe, including interest, fees and charges. If you owe less than £5.00, you must pay the amount you owe in full.
Account fee	None
