Your smart data preferences.

If you have a smart meter we'll continue to collect your smart data. Our privacy policy shows how we protect and use your data.

Data for energy use.

We collect data about your energy use, the more we get, the smarter your energy insights are. We can collect data every half-hour with your consent - this can unlock clever benefits like time of use tariffs, more accurate billing, product development, keeping smart meters working, help reduce costs and carbon - and if opted into marketing, personal recommendations and offers of free or discounted energy. Update your preference to half-hourly (if you haven't already) or get in touch so we can help. Or, you could choose daily data collection or opt-out to monthly.

Data for energy settlement.

If we're not already, we'll start to collect your data half-hourly to use for settlement (how suppliers match and pay for the energy used by customers) - this will help lower the cost of electricity, support more renewable energy use plus many other benefits. You can opt out to daily collection, just update your preference for how often we collect this or get in touch and we'll sort it for you.

The electricity supplied to your home comes from the National Grid. Smart meter required, where eligible. Exit fees and T&Cs apply.

All our fixed tariffs come with a one off donation to the Woodland Trust. The donation will be made within 4 months of your contract start date, providing you haven't cancelled within your cooling off period.
